Sensory Tub

"Place pompoms, rice, pebbles and other small objects in a container. Have your child enjoy sensory play for a while, then close their eyes and identify each object by touch. They can also pretend the pompoms are bugs and enjoy dramatic play, telling a story about the bugs." ~ Miss Ari ~

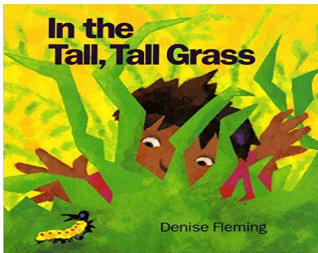

Writing Practice

"A small worksheet to practice letters—the print outs are at the bottom of the page."

Wednesday Lego Challenge: Design a Bug!

Materials: Legos and baseboard, or recycled materials and tape, or any building materials you enjoy working with

Directions

Create a new kind of bug! Read the questions on the Writing Frame to help you think about your bug design.

Your bug can be similar to a real bug but there should be something different about it ... or you can design a completely different kind of bug!

The Design-a-Bug Writing Frame

The name of my bug is:

My bug is (circle one):

Kind of like a real bug

Completely imaginary

My bug likes to eat:

My bug lives:

My bug can (you may circle more than one):

Crawl Hop Fly Slither Walk Swim Burrow Parachute
